The Ocean at the End of the Lane,
by Neil Gaiman

Childhood memories can haunt one forever, as they do the anonymous narrator of Gaiman's splendid modern myth. The protagonist, an artist, returns to his home in the English countryside to recover his memory of events that nearly destroyed him and his family when he was seven. The suicide of a stranger opened the way for a deadly spirit to disguise herself, win over the boy's sister and mother, seduce his father, and threaten the boy if he told anyone the truth.

Wed, Mar 14/7 PM

From Bach to Beatles

All ages

Join us for a musical afternoon with local musician and radio host Vladimir Sitnikov. Vladimir and the students of Talent Studio will perform guitar pieces of many genres: classical, flamenco, jazz, blues, modern, and instrumental arrangements of Beatles and Led Zepelin tunes. All ages are welcome.
