

The Future of Lary-Uteck

What a beautiful day, I thought to myself. Hmmm the houses seem to be floating higher than usual... it's fine, there probably always like this. We aren't that rich, I only have a seven story house. My best friend, Liam, he has a 15 story house, along with the other kids. Today is November 15, 2998. I'm flying home from school. My grandma is very sick, so my mom is bringing her to the 30 years younger machine that we own. As I was flying home, on my flying shoes (there the cool kind were light beams from the bottom) I took out my phone and virtually called Liam (that's when his body virtually forms from my phone!) "Hey Liam, I got the new teleporting app! Want me to teleport you here?" I said "sure Mia!" Liam said back to me. Yep, my name is Mia. "Make sure to bring your flying shoes!" I said "No need, this app called 'tp suply' can teleport your stuff" Liam explained. "oh, I, I have the app to" I muttered. I quickly downloaded it. I'm teleporting him now, it looks pretty cool. It takes a long time for all his body to show up, but it does. When he came, a car showed up. And of course, it was flying. It was Liam's dad. "Hop in Liam, oh, hey Mia, wanna ride home?" Liam's dad said, of course, I said no. He, and Liam, took off.

On my pure diamond phone, I created a nice, pretty character, I scanned the air and my virtual character came up. I named her Lizzy. The app is cheap because the characters only last for 15 minutes. It's been 15 minutes and I can see my house, Lizzy starts fading away beside me. A few steps later, I am almost in front of my house! When I'm at my house, I scan my hand, so the door will open! High technology! I called Liam on my life size pad.

"Hey Liam" I said when he answered "why'd you call, my virtual tutor is helping me with homework, and he only last an hour!" Liam said whisper-like "oh, sorry..." I replied "I'll call you in an hour, bye" he said. I flew around the house for a while... Then I saw our time machine in my mom's room... of course I used it for going to 45 minutes in the future! My mom had the old kind of time machine, the ones that were created in the 2500's! Ya! My mom used the 30 years younger machine... a lot... As I was saying, the new time machines actually make you appear in the future! Like, POOF! But this one, well, in the old days, when you sat in the time machine, there was a tv in front of you, that had some sort of hypnotizing video thing on it to make you think it's been a second. The video will stop when the time you requested is done! Learned this in history. I put the timer and watched the video. When the video stopped, I thought it didn't work! Untill... My phone rang! It was Liam! "Sup Mia" He said "not much, wanna go swimming?" I answered, I was hoping he would say yes. "Sure!" We went off! There was only one thing I needed to pack, it was my bubble, there things you can control with your brain, it knows witch way you wanna go. It only works under water. When we got there, Liam had his bubble. We went in the water  and swam in our bubbles. Almost 1000 years ago, people used to take swimming lessons, now they take bubble-drive lessons! Time does fly, I think to myself. Every year something cooler, newer gets invented. And I'm thankful!

THE END