

Then Now

Welcome to the land of the future.

Where you can get your car to unlock with your fingers touch!

Or with a password. Also they can turn into planes and jets so you can get to places way faster. Houses have elevators and escalators and slides so you never have to use steps. Also your house can unlock with a password so you never have to worry about losing your keys. You can take stuff out of screens to! You can buy a free WI-FI bar things to plug into your electronic so you never have to use your money on data. and that's what I think the future will be like or so I hope.