

Make A Set of / Spy Binoculars!

Have a couple of toilet paper or paper towel rolls, a pencil or pen and some tape or glue?
Then, you can make these binoculars to help you spy things on your scavenger hunt.
Make them as simple or as stylish as you want!

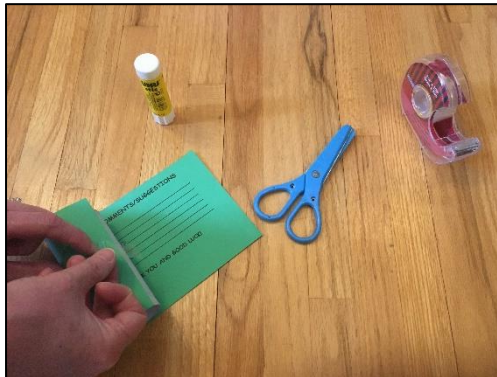

STEP 1: get your stuff! For the ones we've made, you'll need:

- 2 toilet paper rolls
- String, yarn or ribbon (optional)
- Tape, glue or an elastic
- Scissors
- Hole puncher (if available)
- 1 medium or large pom pom or clothespin (if available)

Items to decorate your binocular (paper, stickers, crayons, colour pencils or markers, old magazines to cut out, whatever you have around!)

STEP 2: If using paper, cut it to the size of the roll, then tape or glue the paper around the roll.

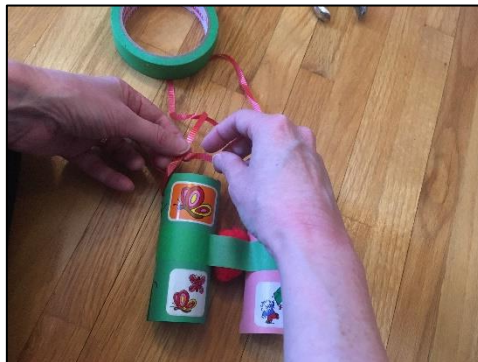

STEP 3: Decorate your rolls! Then, if you'll be adding ribbon or string to wear the binoculars around your neck, use a hole punch or sharp scissors (with adult supervision) to punch a hole in each roll, about 2 cms. from the top.

STEP 4: If using a pom pom or clothespin to keep the rolls separate (for nose room!), center it between the rolls with the holes facing away from the center and use tape or an elastic to secure it. If you don't have a pom pom or pin, use tape, glue, or an elastic to hold the rolls together. If you're going to be using ribbon or string to have the binoculars hang around your neck, make sure the holes are on the outside, not the inside!

STEP 5: If you want to be able to wear the binoculars around your neck (adult supervision required for younger children), now's the time to tie and knot the string or ribbon through the outside holes to create a "strap".

STEP 6: Have fun looking at the world through your unique set of binoculars!
What will YOU spy?!
